

JEFF RIGGENBACH SCHOOLED ABOUT HISTORIAN DR. REX CURRY'S DISCOVERIES

Jeff Rigenbach (January 12, 1947 to January 24, 2021) had many commonalities with other libertarians, including Tom Woods, Lew Rockwell, Jeff Deist, Paul Gottfried, etc. One commonality (and a persistent problem among libertarians as much as among democrats and republicans) was ignorance of the fact that Hitler et al did not describe their movement with the words "Nazi, Fascist, Third Reich, nor Swastika." Rigenbach didn't know that Hitler's ilk described themselves as "Socialist" (by the very word) in their voluminous speeches and writings.

Rigenbach was schooled by Educational Outreach Programs (EOP) about discoveries from the noted historian Dr. Rex Curry's archives. As far back as 2016 the EOP explained to Rigenbach that Hitler did not use the term "Third Reich" (a popular myth spread by the old media, news, schools, universities, everyone). Below are screenshots of public social media posts of the date (January 29, 2016) when Rigenbach first learned the truth. The thread cites the book "THIRD REICH - Swastikas were "S" letters for "SOCIALIST" - the USA's Pledge of Allegiance was the origin of Hitler salutes & Nazi behavior" by the author Ian Tinny, the Pointer Institute, and Matt Crypto, et al. The book was published on Aug 22, 2015. <https://www.amazon.com/dp/B014BU8L1E>

<https://www.amazon.com/dp/1517010268>

Rigenbach's reaction upon being disabused of his lifetime of being lied to by MSM, schools, etc is the very common "Who cares?" or "It's not important." "Who cares if Hitler never gave speeches about his 'Third Reich,' his 'Nazis,' his 'Fascists,' his 'swastika'? It's not important if he always spoke about his 'socialism' and that his flag symbol represented 'socialism' (the name of his party)."

Instead of being angered by all the people who misinformed and miseducated him all of his life, Rigenbach lashes out at the person who disabused him for the first time, late in his life.

His common response allows him to continue his inaccurate use of the language. He can proceed with spreading and reinforcing widespread ignorance, as he did for his whole life. It suggests that he will never share his newfound knowledge with anyone. Rigenbach passed away without ever helping anyone else learn the truth; not his friends, family, not even his own children. He wanted them to go through life with the same ignorance he had endured. The only time Rigenbach helped fight the ignorance was when he was publicly schooled about the topic.

After that, he persisted in aiding and abetting "Liars For Socialism." The Liars for Socialism who victimized and duped him for his entire life.

Jeff Riggensbach was schooled about Historian Dr. Rex Curry's discoveries

January 29 at 9:10am

The book "Third Reich" by Ian Tinny states that "Hitler never said Third Reich" (quoting the historian Dr. Rex Curry, who also states that Germans under Hitler did not refer to themselves as "Nazis" nor "Fascists"). That is an amazing revelation. If anyone is able to cite any source showing the contrary, then please post it. Thanks.
<http://www.amazon.com/dp/B014BU8L1E>
<https://www.facebook.com/daniel.pose.3/photos/837139176406253>

Swastikas were "S" Letters for "SOCIALIST"

The USA's Pledge of Allegiance was the origin of Hitler's salute

Like Comment

You and Lorenza Tribbioli Leach like this.

Jeff Riggensbach Why exactly is this "an amazing revelation"? Why am I supposed to be amazed?

Like · Reply · January 29 at 11:03am

Daniel Pose were u already aware of it?

Like · Reply · January 29 at 5:40pm

Daniel Pose Jeff Riggensbach is very knowledgeable, so he probably already knew about Dr. Curry's discovery that Hitler did not use the term "Third Reich."

On the other hand, almost everyone else thinks that Hitler tossed around the term "Third Reich" as often as Hitler tossed around the term "socialism" (and Hitler droned on and on about his dogma of socialism, always using the very word "socialism").

Like · Reply · January 29 at 8:30pm

Jeff Riggensbach Okay, I'll try putting this another way. What does it matter whether Hitler used the term "Third Reich" or not? Why does it matter? What difference does it make? Why is the answer important or significant? What, if anything, does it signify? Frankly, I doubt that anyone "thinks that Hitler tossed around the term 'Third Reich' as often as Hitler tossed around the term 'socialism' (and Hitler droned on and on about his dogma of socialism, always using the very word 'socialism')." I doubt, in fact, that much of anyone thinks about that subject at all. Why should they?

Like · Reply · January 29 at 9:54pm

Brian Gray of course, I can't speak for daniel, but there has definitely been a focused propaganda effort to cast the u.s. government's enemies (past an present), like hitler, as evil people and to ignore the evils of their allies, like stalin, for instance. in order to successfully implement that strategy, they attempt to make their similarities (socialism) appear different, and daniel tends to focus on this to educate others on the evils of socilaism, no matter who executes it.

further, he tries to point out the other instances in which words are twisted by the propaganda machine (like this "third reich" post) in order to more fully expose the illusion.

so, it doesn't really matter whether or not hitler used the term, but it does matter that this fact has been manipulated to mislead the masses.

You've heard that "Marxist Academics" are teaching socialism to students in colleges, high schools, etc. New research indicates that the academics call themselves "Conservatives, Republicans, and Libertarians," and they are just too stupid to know that they repeat socialist BS.

About Hitler: Most schoolteachers constantly use the terms "Nazis" and "Nazi Party" and "Nazi Germany" and "Fascists" and "Fascism" even though Hitler did not use those terms in his speeches about his Party. Students don't understand what Hitler and his ilk actually said: "SOCIALISM" (by the very word in voluminous speeches and writings). There was no "Nazi Party." Hitler did not give speeches about his "Nazi Party." There was no "Nazi Germany." Hitler did not give speeches about his "Nazi Germany." Most people speak the way all bad teachers speak: they do not understand how they spread ignorance and reinforce it. They cover up for socialism. They unwittingly assist "Liars For Socialism."

Don't help socialists cover up for their comrade Hitler

Socialist schools (government schools) teach students to refer to Germany under Hitler with the terms "Nazi" and "Fascist" and "Third Reich." Hitler did not refer to his movement as "Nazism," nor as "Fascism," nor as the "Third Reich." The Orwellian over-use of the terms "Nazi" and "Fascist" and "Third Reich" are modern linguistic lies to trick students into supporting the word that Hitler DID use in a glowing manner to describe his own ideology: SOCIALISM.